PEACE OR WAR

The Russian Advance into India.

A Loud Note of Alarm Sounded by the Press of London.

The Czar's Standard Planted Close to British Possessions.

Austrians Told by Their Finance Minister That the Time Has Not Come to Cut Down Army Appropriations.

By Telegram to the Times.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The Standard publishes a communication in regard to the recent so-called aggressive action of Russia in Pamir which says:

It is high time for England to unshackle her sword in Asia. The Russian side of the conquest which has followed steadily eastward for fifty years must be sent sweeping back to the Caspian. Russia has boldly pushed on until she now stands at the very outpost of India.

The Standard in a leading editorial commenting on this communication says it has no liking for "scaremongers," and that its purpose is "not to suggest alarm but to enforce the necessity of firmness and vigilance."

There is no question of hostilities, but if it were possible to conserve the struggle for the supremacy in Asia it should be decided in Pamir. It would be an easy matter for our Indian authorities to nullify the eagle which in ill-timed Chauvinism a Cossack commander hoisted in the wilderness.

The game of "house" has so far been played with success, but there is a limit beyond which cannot be pushed. The signal for retreat should be given when the cabinet of St. James speaks clearly on the subject.

THE DEAD TORY LEADER.

Funeral Services over the Remains of the Late William Henry Smith.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The body of the late Rt. Hon. William Henry Smith, Conservative leader in the Commons, was removed this morning from Walmer Castle, near Deal, en route to Hambleton, Oxfordshire, where it will be interred.

Crowds waited outside the precincts of Westminster Abbey for an hour in the pouring rain to witness the arrival and departure of the celebrities. All the royal family were represented by proxies and the abbey was packed to the doors.

Almost every noted politician was present, and a special section had been reserved for the diplomatic corps who were all in attendance. Signs of mourning for the death of Mr. Smith were general in London today, especially in the Strand, where a number of stores were closed, and flags were everywhere at half-mast.

The last services over the dead took place in the Parish Church of Hambleton, and were of the most simple description. The body was interred in Greenlands Cemetery, which was adjacent to the village by the deceased.

A MUSICAL CRANK.

He Persecutes a Singer with Threatening Epistles.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] At the Westminster police court today Nicholas Darlington Pickett, an organist and professional singer, claiming to be a native of the United States and son of a clergyman, was charged with sending libelous and menacing letters to Miss MacIntyre, the singer. During the prisoner's examination at the police court it was shown that for the past two years he has been deluging Miss MacIntyre with letters proposing marriage and threatening to kill her unless she consented. After some further testimony had been given the accused was committed for trial.

FAMINE IN RUSSIA.

Thirty-two Million Peasants in State of Distress.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 10.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] Senator Barenhoff says that there are 32,000,000 peasants in Russia now destitute, who must be provided for for the next ten months. It will require 320,000,000 pounds of grain to feed them. Owing to the difficulty in obtaining foodstuffs for cattle, the export of linned cake from Russia has been prohibited.

Famine in the Tolga Valley has caused widespread sickness among the hunger-suffering inhabitants of that district. Thousands of unfortunate peasants are already prostrated by typhus fever.

Austria Will Keep Up Her Army.

VIENNA, Oct. 10.—The Minister of Finance today presented the Austrian budget for 1892. The expenditures are estimated at 584,820,878 florins, an increase of 19,167,381 florins over 1891. The receipts are estimated at 585,298,262 florins, an increase of 18,862,741 over 1891. Referring to the large military expenditure the minister said that while the present political situation lasted the army would absorb a large portion of the revenue.

The Rio Riots.

RIO JANEIRO, Oct. 10.—The rioting which began in the Italian Theater on Thursday evening continued during the night. Troops were called out and patrolled the city until morning. A number of persons have been killed. Further trouble is apprehended.

RIO JANEIRO, Oct. 10.—A strong force of police now occupy the streets and order has been restored. One rioter was killed and several injured in last night's fracas.

Russian Jews in Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 10.—Fifty families of exiled Russian Jews will shortly be established in homes at Mille Lacs on the Great Northern railroad. President Hill, of the road, has had built fifty houses which on behalf of the company he has presented to the committee having charge of the Baron Hirsch fund. The refugees will be furnished gratis during the winter with all the necessities of life, the road agreeing to furnish coal and wood in abundance.

A Poor Harvest in England.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The Times today publishes final estimates of the state of crops in Great Britain, and says it anticipates a bad yield and of indifferent quality. The real state of affairs will not be known for a month. It is possible the harvest as a whole may not be worse than those of recent years. But in many districts the crop will be the worst in forty years.

LIVES IN PERIL

Foreigners in China in Great Danger.

Missionaries in the Interior Ordered to Leave or Suffer Death.

Fanatic Soldiers Threaten to Wage a War of Extermination.

Refugees from Ichang Arrive at Hankow—Their Narrative of the Recent Outrages on Foreigners at That Place.

By Telegram to the Times.

HANKOW (China) Sept. 6, via San Francisco, Oct. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] The steamer Paochu arrived here today with the Ichang refugees, twenty in all, all of whom lost everything except the clothes they wore at the beginning of the outbreak. Several bore the marks of serious violence. The riot took place at broad noon without warning or provocation. It was carried out by a handful of men evidently acting under orders in the presence of a number of Chinese officials who knew every one of the rioters. Their mission of destruction was carried out with the utmost speed. That no lives were lost is almost entirely a matter of luck.

The Scotch missionaries owed their escape to the fact that they had gone boating on the river at the time of the outbreak. They hurried back and were just in time to rescue the senior missionary's infant children and escape before the mob arrived.

The Catholic sisters were thrown over a steep bank into the river and then stoned. They were rescued by Hoshua. Several were badly injured.

As in former cases, the telegraph clerks refused to send on the news. A full dispatch to the Daily News at Shanghai was received without excuse on the day of the riot and all foreign messages the day after. On the third day, when all possible damage had been done, the military mounted guard over the blackened ruins.

In Hankow there was a gathering of the anti-foreign element here, including a large number of officials. They resolved that foreigners must be driven immediately from the central provinces. The missionaries at Wu-chang have received threatening placards ordering them to leave at once or they will be exterminated.

The Taoist inspected the nursery today, making a search for bones, eyes, etc., of children said to have been murdered by the soldiers.

THE SITUATION SERIOUS.

Only Armed Intervention Can Secure Safety for Foreigners.

SHANGHAI (China) Sept. 12, via SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] The North China Daily News says editorially:

There are points about the Ichang riot of serious importance. It was no isolated work of a mob. There was indeed a pretext in the shape of a child said to have been kidnapped on the day of the riot, but this was evidently merely a subterfuge in order to give a shadow of excuse for the outbreak. The evidences that it was directed and carried out by soldiers are only too numerous.

When the train containing the body of Parnell arrived at Willemsen a great crowd rushed toward the carriage. The coffin was temporarily uncovered, and the people passed in single file through the carriage. Many persons in the line were observed to be moved to tears. Delegates from several branches of the London League placed wreaths upon the bier. Mrs. Parnell's wreath was visible at the head of the casket.

It bore in letters beautifully and artistically formed of flowers the words: "To my own true love, my husband, my king."

DE YOUNG'S PROTEST.

A Quagmire Selected as a Site for Frisco's Public Buildings.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] A telegram was received at the Treasury Department today from Mr. DeYoung of San Francisco saying that the property selected as the site for their public building is a quagmire and that it will require more than $1,000,000 to lay the foundation for the building. Secretary Foster said that this was the first intimation he had received that there was anything wrong with the site selected and he could scarcely believe the statement, inasmuch as it was recommended by a special commission charged with the matter as well as by both Senators of the State, two representatives from the city, Mr. Huntington, Mr. Crocker and many others.

The Secretary said that the site was selected mainly on the recommendation of persons named and because it contained 50 per cent more ground than any other site offered.

Secretary Foster added that Postmaster-General Wanamaker did not recommend the site that was selected by the commission, but an entirely different one, on elevated ground.

Pennsylvania Miners' Strike.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 10.—Unless the railroad coal miners' strike is settled within a week some exciting times are looked for in this section. Sixty of the largest operators have signed an agreement to hold out against an advance for three years if necessary. The operators say they will give the strikers another week to return to work. If they refuse, the tactics of the coke operators will be adopted and foreigners imported to start the mines. The miners say they will stand out until their demands are granted.

BERLIN GOSSIP

The Kaiser's Temperance Crusade.

Indications That His Pet Measure Will Not Succeed.

Socialists to Demand the Earth at Their Coming Congress.

The Emperor Warns Berlin Bankers That Lending Them Money to Russia Means War on the Fatherland.

By Telegram to the Times.

BERLIN, Oct. 10.—[Copyright, 1891, by the New York Associated Press.] After a long recess the Bundesrath or legislative body representing the individual States of Germany reassembled on Wednesday. The House considered as the first order the projected law to repress drunkenness, which, as is well-known, is a pet measure of the Emperor. A majority of the plenipotentiaries declared that their government could not accept the project in the present form.

The Bavarian representative intimated that his State has decided that there should be no such liquor legislation as the bill provided. A Prussian member acting under instructions from the Emperor, was the only plenipotentiary who defended the measure. The bill was finally referred to a commission. It is certain it will appear in the Reichstag transformed from a rude attack upon the liquor trade into a mildly beneficial bill for the protection of drunkards. The liquor dealers are arranging for the holding a congress at Stuttgart for the purpose of organizing for political defense.

THE PORK PROBLEM AGAIN.

The Bundesrath discussed the abolition of the prohibition against the importation of American pork and approved the edict opening the country to American pork, but will delay its decision on the proposal to relax the vexatious formalities restricting the entry of Austrian, Italian and Russian pork into Germany. Austria has complained of the partiality shown to the United States while the French and allies are not similarly favored.

MODERATE SOCIALIST DEMANDS.

Special interest attaches to the Socialist Congress shortly to assemble at Erfurt. The Directing Committee has revised the programme. The demands comprise universal suffrage without distinction as to sex, secret ballot, proportionate representation, voting on Sundays or holidays, payment of members, the popular right to initiate or reject legislation, popular control of State, provincial and communal administration, annual votes on taxation, the popular decision as to peace or war, the creation of international arbitration tribunals, the right of free speech and free meetings, abolition of State subventions to churches, universal military instruction, militia replacing the standing army, secularization of the schools, free education, free justice, that judges be elected by the people, gratuitous medicine, State supported doctors, a progressive income tax, the abolition of indirect taxation, eight hours unbroken repose for thirty-six hours weekly for every workman, State surveillance of factories, mines and other industries; the formation of a labor bureau, co-operation of workmen in the administration, universal State insurance, prohibiting the employment of children under 14 years of age, the prohibition of the truck system and the right of workmen to form coalitions. Comprehensive as these demands are, there are extremists in the party who want more. If the young section dominates the congress there will be some general declarations against property and other Anarchistic resolutions adopted. The committee has elaborated the programme, which, while not proposing to overturn the State, proposes to transform the State into a socialist agency.

EMPHATIC IMPERIAL UTTERANCES.

During the Emperor's presence in Frankfurt, where he visited the electrical exhibition, an attempt was made to ascertain the imperial opinion in regard to the Russian loan. It is reported that His Majesty frankly said: "The bankers can be as the pleasure of children under 14 years of age, the prohibition of the truck system and the right of workmen to form coalitions. Comprehensive as these demands are, there are extremists in the party who want more. If the young section dominates the congress there will be some general declarations against property and other Anarchistic resolutions adopted. The committee has elaborated the programme, which, while not proposing to overturn the State, proposes to transform the State into a socialist agency."

A SPT CAUGHT.

The German war office has been informed of the important capture of a spy by the Austrian authorities. The man was arrested at Suczawa and discovered to be a French staff officer. Papers of a highly compromising character, relating to the Prusso-Austrian frontier, were found on him.

The Berner Bill Beaten.

ATLANTA (Ga.) Oct. 10.—The State Senate has effectively killed extreme anti-railroad legislation known as the Berner bill, which passed the House last week. This bill aimed at the West Point Terminal Company, and, if passed, would have involved the railroad in a large amount of litigation.

Dark Wrecked—Crew Lost.

HALIFAX (N. S.) Oct. 10.—A dispatch from Lockport says that the fishing schooner Daisy passed a wrecked boat on Monday. There was no sign of the crew. The wreck is probably that of the bark Warsaw, which was reported recently as abandoned and water-logged. The crew is believed to have perished.

Enlisting Indians in the Army.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Reports received at the War Department indicate that the enlistment of Indians in the army is proving a marked success. It is likely that one Indian troop will be brought to Fort Meyer during the coming winter.

REFORMING CONVICTS.

Ex-President Hayes Addresses the National Prison Association.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] The twenty-first annual congress of the National Prison Association opened this evening in Carnegie Hall, Allegheny. Gov. Pattison, who was to receive the delegates on behalf of the State, was unavoidably detained, but was amply represented by Adj. Gen. McClelland. Mayor McGourie welcomed the delegates in behalf of the cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny.

The president of the association, ex-President Rutherford B. Hayes, then delivered the annual address, dwelling on the reform needed in the present methods. The salient points were that if jails and lockups in our country, 4000 or 5000 in number, are in truth as they often have been aptly termed compulsory schools of crime, the beginning of the public expense, we shall have from this quarter alone an accession to the criminal classes in each decade of perhaps 40,000 trained experts in crime. He urged above all things, reform in the manner of dealing with the young, the beginners in law-breaking. The professional criminal, said Mr. Hayes, belongs in prison. To the question how long should he be kept there, the answer is until he is cured of his criminal habits. If it keeps him in the prison, it is well known, is a pet measure of the Emperor. A majority of the plenipotentiaries declared that their government could not accept the project in the present form.

Classified Line Advertising.
This department of THE TIMES, which is represented today on the first, second and third pages, contains 13 columns of classified line advertisements, embracing the large number of 500 separate business announcements. In the best and broadest sense this can be called popular advertising. Five cents a line with a guaranteed daily circulation of over 9000 copies is a better rate than three cents a line with a circulation of less than 4500 copies.

The McKinley law was a year old last Tuesday. It is a healthy youngster, and for more reasons than one the Democrats wish it had never been born.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat thinks that girls don't count in matters of this kind. It would take twin boys to revive the fading political fortunes of G. C.

An eastern exchange which knows something about stocks, says that whenever the cry goes up, "Jay Gould is a very sick man," it is a safe way to say the other fellows are in a bad way.

SACRAMENTO, following the lead of Stockton, has bored for natural gas, and has struck a good flow of it at the same depth—920 feet. Work has now been stopped for lack of funds.

A sharp advertising firm in Cincinnati offered to print all the ballots if they were allowed to print their firm's name on the ballot. While they did not get the job, they got any amount of free advertising over the discussion of the question. That was what they wanted.

POSTMASTER HOIT of Santa Barbara has commenced an active warfare upon newspapers circulated there for the offense of violating the anti-lottery laws of Congress and the State. As soon as Los Angeles gets a postmaster, we have a right to expect like action in this city.

The army is to be set to work at professional studies, and an officer will hereafter find promotion harder than ever. The new regulations will go into effect a year from next January. An important feature of the forthcoming order is the establishment of a lyceum at every post in the army. Every officer in the service will be required to prepare and read a paper upon such professional subjects as he may elect at certain specified times before these lyceums. Attendance is also made compulsory.

A BUSINESS argument brought forward in favor of Arizona becoming a State, is that if Uncle Sam is as liberal as he has been with other new commonwealths, he will give her 4,615,460 acres of land within her borders. Arizona has an eye to the main chance and is figuring that if this land could be sold for $1 an acre, it would wipe out the State debt and leave $3,750,460 to the credit of the Good Times Fund, or something of that sort. This idea is, of course, very attractive, but it is a long look ahead; and what a time the Arizona Legislature would have protecting that large surplus!

The department of transportation of the World's Fair has been offered a valuable relic of the early days of railroad-building in this country, and will doubtless secure it for an exhibit. The old locomotive "Samson," built in England by Timothy Hackworth and brought to this country in 1838, is still in existence and in working order. Accompanying it is a quaint old passenger car built in imitation of a stage coach, both standing on some of the old scalloped or fish-belly rails. The engineer who first ran the locomotive is still alive, and if living at the time of the World's Fair may accompany the venerable engine.

IRVING M. SCOTT of San Francisco, who has just returned from an inspection of European iron works, says that the Bethlehem, Penn., works have facilities for iron and steel working in advance of anything on the other side of the Atlantic. The Bulletin says: "This is the result of a few years of Republican policy of encouraging home industry. When we started in to build modern ships, armor and guns, British technical journals complacently suggested that if we wanted good work we should apply to British manufacturers, as we could not do it ourselves, and many of our Democrats and Mugwumps echoed the recommendation. What have they to say about it now?"

AND now there is a big rumour on foot between the insurance men of this city. Mr. Hawley, representing a non-union company, has brought suit in the name of his principals against Mr. Brodick, representative of some of the union companies. The charge is libel, and damages are laid at $25,000. Mr. Brodick is accused of sending out circulars representing that Mr. Hawley's companies are not very strong, are strong enough to pass all the requirements of law, and are insuring at eastern rates, which average about one-third lower than those of the union. He comes back at the "combine" with the statement that during the past five years it has collected in California about $34,000,000, with which to pay $15,000,000 of losses, which would certainly leave a comfortable margin of profit for the companies. Mr. Hawley, not satisfied with his suit against Mr. Brodick, "breathes out threatenings and slaughter" against other insurance agents in the city, and there is a prospect that fur and fire-brands will be flying shortly. If there's anything we do enjoy it's a good big fight.

however, we have reason to believe that the published exhibit will be more accurate and comprehensible. Such a statement should be published every year without fail, and then the taxpayers may be informed as to how their business is running.

THE TIMES has attempted to perform a public service by pioneering the way, in a certain sense, and showing what is due from the county's book-keeper. The exhibit published today is drawn from the published report already alluded to, with the items rearranged in logical order, and the total of expenditures corrected by the addition of $1763.70 to make it correspond with the record in the Auditor's office. This sum is not set down to any particular item or items of expense, because it is not yet accounted for, and cannot be without checking over the transactions of the entire year. The details of cash receipts and disbursements brought forward are kindly furnished by the Auditor's office.

There yet remains the most satisfactory application of this exhibit in analyzing its items carefully to show the cost and proceeds of various departments of the county government, and to draw certain conclusions therefrom. To this task we propose to address ourselves at another time.

FOREIGN NOTABLES.

Bavaria's demented King spends most of his time skinning potatoes. Several other European sovereigns spend most of theirs trying to skin each other.

The czar Alexander of Russia keeps up the collection of medals and postage stamps he began when a boy. The Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany has just ordered a new gold crown for himself.

The health of Prince Bismarck is now said to be excellent. A German who visited him recently said that the ex-chancellor spent more than two hours in the saddle one day and more than four hours in riding over his estate in a carriage on the following day.

Trying to interview the Prince of Wales is as difficult a job as trying to pick a Yale lock with a toothpick. He is not to be got at by the willing scribbler and the American syndicate which offers $2500 for an interview with him needn't be in a hurry to buy the draft for the money.

The Countess de St. Louis knows how to handle a rifle with a dexterity born of much practice, and she proposes to try her hand at bringing down a stag, which will be driven for the purpose in the forest of Mar Lodge, the Highland home of the Duke and Duchess of Fife, whose guests she will be.

The ex-empress Eugenie has preserved copies of all her son's letters, his essays on historical subjects, and his views regarding political matters. In the new future, it is said, she will publish them, in order to throw a brighter light upon the pure and lofty character of the Prince Imperial.

The young King of Spain bade farewell to his nurse, Maximilia Palazuela, a short time ago. For five years and a half she has been his faithful nurse, day and night. The little fellow was so strongly attached to her that it was feared it would endanger his health to make parting easier, the nurse being left with the child, and the court departed for San Sebastian.

WOMAN'S WORLD.
A female engineer, Miss Ida Hewitt, is engaged to be married to a Kansas Valley Railroad in West Virginia.

Mr. Besant is expected to create a great stir as a lecturer in India, where a woman's appearance on the stage is a wide departure from ancient and present customs. Flower cartons are used for bridal pairs to stand before while receiving congratulations. They are of some dull, neutral tint, upon which flowers are thickly strewn. A number of gowns and capes are being made up for autumn wear of a peculiarly rough make of cheviot. Almost any tartan is copied in this material, which will be found most useful for traveling gowns a little later, when the cooler days of autumn set in.

Sophie Gansberg, the beautiful nihilist, privately executed some weeks ago in a Russian prison, is said to have been the original heroine of Col. Savage's novel, "My Official Wife." Col. Savage is said to have met the fascinating intriguer in Paris once and to have been completely tamed by her charms.

The ages of some noted women are given as follows: Harriet Beecher Stowe, 80; Julia Ward Howe, 72; Beva Lockwood, 51; Susan B. Anthony, 71; Marion Harland, 50; Mary Mapes Dodge, 32; Kate Field, 50; Fanny Davenport, 40; Ada Rehan, 31; Emma Tilton, 34; Ella Wheeler Wilcox, 33; Lillian Lusk, 32; Clara Morris, 44; and Mary Anderson, 32.

Arizona has a woman mining expert in the person of Nellie Cashman, a beautiful brunette, only 20 years old. Nine years ago she came from Kansas to Tucson, and there, working with her brothers in the mines, she became wonderfully expert in judging ore. Her judgment is so good that the oldest and most experienced mining experts are governed by it.

CURRENT HUMOR.
A strange word this. In France, when a girl is pleasing, they say she is chic. Over here, when she doesn't please you, she's an old hen. "Yonkers Statesman."
"This is no laundry," said the editor. "Laundry" repeated the poet. "That is what I said. Artichoke being the word, why should you bring in your weak swash?"—Indianapolis Journal.

"You say the chicken soup isn't good? Why, I told the cook to make it up, perhaps she didn't catch the idea. Boarder. No! I think it was the chicken she didn't catch."—Brandon Bucksaw.

First Little Boy. And does your sister play the piano? Second Little Boy. (proudly) Indeed she does; you just ought to hear her. She's a graduate of Vassar, she is.—Good News.

A petrifed hog has been found near Charlotte, Penn. It is supposed to be petrified by seeing another hog uncross his legs in a street-car when a well-dressed woman wanted to pass.—Buffalo Express.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Miss Norma C. Crawford of Minneapolis, Pa., has been offered the chair of oratory in the University of Honolulu, Sandwich Islands.

Mary Powell Putnam, sister of James Russell Lowell, is the only surviving member of this poet's generation in the Lowell family. Her eighty-first birthday occurs in December.

Henry George of New York has just returned from a long sojourn in the northern part of the State, and hasn't quite made up his mind yet whether to vote for Fassett or Flower.

Dr. Mary Walker, dressed in full male attire, is now on exhibit in the Boston dime museum. Or, rather, she "holds" receptions every day and evening and addresses the audience on all the vital questions of the hour.

Ex-Gov. Houser of Montana began life as a surveyor on the Missouri Pacific Railroad. He emigrated to Last Chance Gulch, where Helena now stands, and got a job to turn the windlass of a mine hoist. He's now a millionaire.

Miss Alice C. Fletcher has her headquarters at Fort Lemhi, Idaho, where she is making the allotments of lands to the Nez Perce Indians. Much of the time she is out on the mountains, and she has a rough "canon," sleeping in a tent at night.

Once when John T. Blair, the octogenarian railroad millionaire of New Jersey, was in the witness-box in Kansas City, a lawyer said to him: "Mr. Blair, how is it that you are dressed so stylishly while you wear clothes that are so plain?" "That is very easy to answer, sir," replied the old millionaire. "My son has a rich father. I had a poor father."

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

Bishop Warren of the Methodist Episcopal Church has given $6300 as the nucleus of the endowment of a professorship of the history of the United States in the University of Denver.

The first meeting of the Icelandic Synod of the Lutheran Church was held a few weeks since at Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada. The synod has twenty-four congregations and over 5000 souls.

The Congregationalist believes that no church without a pastor should permit any minister to occupy its pulpit without having previous knowledge of his character and ministerial standing.

Rev. Phillips Brooks is said to be the fastest weak man in the world. Yesterday reporters who tried him found that he speaks on an average of 212 words a minute. Stammering in his youth is accounted for his remarkable haste in speech.

A writer to the Christian Register believes that unless it is possible to form a circuit where one man can preach for three or four societies it is not worth while for the Unitarians to spend their evenings in planting or equipping country churches.

Dr. Newman Hall, the noted English Congregationalist divine, is 75 years old. The famous tract, "Come to Jesus," of which he is the author, has had a greater sale than almost any other religious work, excepting the Bible. Several million copies of it have been printed, and it has been translated into more than thirty languages.

POLITICAL POINTS.

Gov. Hill has looked over his fences in New York State, but he had better repair his snow-banks before November.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

A loan of $25,000,000, at 2 per cent., is the most recent grand achievement in American finance. It is scarcely necessary to add that a Republican Secretary of the Treasury deserves the credit for it.—Cleveland Leader.

Mr. Cleveland, it is said, is secretly opposed to Campbell. Of course he is, but he has no reason to be. Campbell will be so badly defeated in 1891 that his name will hardly be mentioned in the national convention.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Walter G. Gresham as a Presidential possibility is growing in favor. He is an illustrious man with an illustrious record, and a character almost perfect. There is no reason why he should not be the immense following.—Bloomington Leader.

Weekly Reports from Southern California Observers.

The Weather Generally Favorable for Harvesting Crops.

Raisin-makers Enthusiastic over the Very Large Yield.

Cahuenga and Ballona Valley Farmers Prepare to Turn into Sugar-beet Culture—The Orange Outlook.

Following is the weekly weather crop bulletin of Southern California, based on reports from voluntary correspondents and published by the United States Weather Bureau for the week ending October 9:

Buenos Aires (S. S. Mack).—Bean thrashing is progressing. The heavy winds of the 2d, 3d and 4th damaged the bean and corn crops; the former of which is in good condition, and range from twenty to thirty tons per acre. Peas are being planted for the winter crop.

Pomona (John Wasson).—The Pomona Wine Company has crushed about 500 tons of grapes and a good many have been shipped, dried and fresh. The orange crop looks well. It is ascertained that the cause of figs souring and fermenting on the trees was too much irrigation.

Redlands (J. M. Craig).—Raisin makers are enthusiastic over the large yield and fine crop. Very choice mountain apples are in market; also prunes, quinces and pomegranates. Winners of the county fair, Winchester (J. M. Case).—Crops all gathered; farmers waiting for the rainy season. No desert winds occurred since the 2d and 3d, doing no damage. Grape crushing began two weeks ago, and will be made. Walnuts are two weeks late, but begin to drop.

San Diego (C. D. Buss).—Had three days desert wind on the 2d and 3d, but the maturity of the peanut, bean and corn crops, and caused slight damage in blowing off walnuts. Above crops are in good condition. Corn yield good. Others varied. San Diego (M. L. Hearne).—Exceptionally fine weather prevailed for curing grapes; two weeks more and nearly all the crop ready for market. The yield is enormous and the fruit large and fine. Several carloads shipped each week. Great quantities of grapes in the market, obtaining a good price.

Julian (W. A. Sicker).—The high east wind on the 2d and 3d caused three-fourths of all the fruit on the trees to fall. Apples and many kinds of pears were not yet ripe, causing a disastrous loss to our fruit-growers. The county fair is now in session at San Diego.

Los Angeles (George E. Franklin).—The temperature ranged in excess of the normal, averaging 4 degrees below. Highest during the week 80 degrees; lowest 40 degrees. A deficiency of 20 inch occurred in precipitation. Climate generally favorable during the earlier portion of the last two days. This season has been exceptionally favorable for raising grapes, the crop of which is 1,800 tons.

West Vernon (S. McKinley).—Apple-picking is in full operation; the fruit is below the average. I attribute the hot sun, as the cause. Winter vegetables are being planted.

PERSONALS.

Marketing Turkeys.
(Farm and Poultry).
In two months the young turkeys of May will be sent to market, and to have them large and well grown they should receive extra attention now. It is customary to turn them out to forage for themselves and to roost in the trees. It is an excellent plan, and enables them to raise a large flock at little or no cost, but it will pay to give them a feed at night, so as to increase their growth as well as to induce them to come up to roost. If the young turkeys are early taught to roost under an open shed, they will be protected from storms, they will thrive better than if roosting in trees. Young turkeys become lame from flying on and off the high limbs and trees, and do not grow after being injured. The object should be to feed them from this time until they are ready for market, but feed only sparingly at present. After October they may be fed all they can eat at one meal, morning and night, in order to have them fat and in choice condition to secure the best prices. It is not the largest turkey that sells best, but the fat and plump bird of medium size, for which an extra price can be obtained at all seasons.

Harrison and Blaine are pulling together like twin brothers in the matter of improving every opportunity to promote the Republican party's chances of success, and that is as much as it is necessary to know about their relations.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat (Rep.).

BLAIR'S RESIGNATION.

The President Accepts it in a Complimentary Note.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] A special dispatch from Washington says that ex-Senator Blair today received a note from President Harrison in which he says:
Your resignation of the office of envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to China was tendered some time ago, but action upon it has been deferred for reasons well known to you. In accepting it now I assure you that it has been a source of great regret to me that what I believe to have been a misunderstanding has led to an untenable objection on the part of China to your acceptance as the representative of this Government. I have directed the Secretary of State to protest to the Chinese government against the insufficiency of the objections presented by it and that you have terminated the correspondence by a peremptory resignation. Let me assure you that I have after inquiry found nothing that in any degree reflects upon your character or impairs the esteem and friendship in which I have long held you.

By Telegraph to the Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—[By the Associated Press.] The fourth day's session of the Methodist Ecumenical Council was presided over by Rev. Dr. Arthur of England. The Committee on Business reported a number of resolutions and memorials, which were held for consideration at a later day.

The regular programme of the day was then taken up, the subject being "The Church and Scientific Thought." The first essay was one prepared by Percy W. Bunting, editor of the Contemporary Review, and entitled "Influence of Modern Scientific Progress on Religious Thought." In Mr. Bunting's absence the paper was read by J. B. Stack of London.

The paper, in part, said that the modern mind had steepest itself in science as to bluntness to small extent, its spiritual faculties. Agnosticism appears to rest upon the idea that nothing is to be believed which does not rest on experimental induction. The question is not one of science, but of philosophy. Treatise of the spiritual history of man. Bunting says that the evolutionary theory of religion is in strict accordance with very much that we are accustomed to believe. It gives boundless scope to faith and hope.

Rev. Dr. Terry of Evanston, Ill., spoke of the attitude of the church toward various phases of unbelief.
Rev. W. T. Davidson of England, tutor in biblical literature and exegesis in a college, played the front and back of the church on the subject of "The Bible and Modern Criticism."

Rev. Dr. Dewar of Toronto held that the great problem confronting the church was the necessity of reconciling the results of criticism and Christian doctrine.

Rev. Frank Ballard of England said that the small time allowed for discussion of this great subject was an indication of disrespect. There was danger of the church playing the front and back of the church on the subject of "The Bible and Modern Criticism."

Dr. Buckley of New York paid a tribute to Bunting's paper, which showed, he said, that religion was not and never would be a matter of induction or observation, but of faith and heart. Science could give no help as to the fundamental questions of religion. Christianity was as false as the wildest superstition unless the birth of Christ was the result of divine operation upon a woman without the agency of man. [Hear, hear.] Nine-tenths of what high critics brought forward had been the subject of study by Bible students for twenty-five years. The trouble lay in the arrogance of the critics. The trial of Dr. Briggs resulted not from what he held but from the arrogant and domineering manner in which he sought to force those ideas down everybody's throat.

Rev. James Crabtree of England thought it desirable to establish the greatest friendship between religion and science. Many divorce between them it is religion that will suffer. Religious unbelief and the unsettlement of the times is due to the attitude of some theologians toward the new science. Christian faith and its records must not shrink from the most searching criticism, if that criticism is made by a seeking heart.

Chairman Arthur said that he had never heard in a Methodist assembly a discussion which caused him such deep feeling as that he had heard this morning. He had heard words used whose meaning evidently the users had not settled in their heads. What was the evolution? The new thing from itself. Give the flower sun and rain and it would unfold itself.

Bishop Keener of Methodist Episcopal Church, South, deprecated all the apologetic views of creation. He came out of speculation into the region of facts.

Bishop Fowler of San Francisco said that unless Methodists could defend their ground they must surrender. Therefore he welcomed the criticism. The council then adjourned, to allow the delegates to embark on an excursion to the tomb of Wesley.

Starvation in Mexico.
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 10.—A dispatch from San Antonio, Tex., says: "D. P. Newcomer, United States Immigrant Inspector, has just returned from a visit to Pedras Negras, Mexico. He states that there is great destitution among the lower class of Mexicans in Chihuahua and Durango. There are about 4000 people seeking employment on the railroad extension between Tarragon and Durango. These men and their families are half starved and in utter want. Hundreds of unfortunate subsist entirely on the maguay plant. The drought is broken and there are indications of better times."

Train-Robbers Beaten Off.
PARIS, (Tele.) Oct. 10.—A desperate attempt was made to hold up the south-bound passenger train on the "Prisco" road, 100 miles north of here at 3 o'clock this morning. Several shots were fired. Conductor Carr knocked one of the robbers down with his lamp while the others were preparing to fire with a pistol at the conductor's breast.

On the Diamond.
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—The game today between the Frisco and Sacramento was a one-sided affair, the home team winning by a score of 17 to 2.
Sax Jose, Oct. 10.—San Jose and Oakland played a poor game today which resulted in a victory for San Jose by a score of 23 to 7.

Fallen.
NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Albright & Son, manufacturers of neckwear, failed today. Liabilities are currently reported to be $150,000.

E. M. Hatch has recently sold several lots of lemons at $8.50 per box in bulk, which price is equivalent to $4 per box packed and delivered at the depot. The lemons were less than half cured, none of them having been picked from the trees over two months. There are a few gold mines in California that are as profitable as an Ontario lemon grove in full bearing.—Ontario Observer.

Reports were submitted by the sub-committees on reservoir sites, boundaries and that appointed to examine into the legal status of the cases.

The Committee on Irrigation Boundaries recommended the following limits for the proposed district: from the San Gabriel river to the west boundary of the San Gabriel river; thence east to Lincoln avenue; thence south to Dakota street; thence east to Kirkwood avenue; thence south to Washington street; thence east to Allen avenue; thence south to the south line of the Brigen tract; thence east along said south line, and a prolongation thereof, eastward to the west bank of the Eaton Canyon; thence southerly and easterly along said bank to a point where an easterly prolongation of the south boundary of the Martinez tract would intersect the same; thence westerly along said prolongation line, and the south boundary of said Martinez tract and the south boundary of the Wilson and Patton tract to the southeast corner of the city of Pasadena; thence along the southern boundary line of the city of Pasadena to a point where a westerly prolongation of Columbia street would intersect the west boundary of the San Gabriel river; thence north along said west boundary line to the place of beginning.

THE MARSHAL'S EXPLANATION.

In explanation of the arrest of Preacher Yates on Thursday, which has caused considerable comment, Marshal McLean states positively that Officer Robins did not direct the gospel expounder from Colorado street to Fair Oaks avenue, but told him he must go to a vacant lot. It is what the minor told Yates in front of the church, many of the bystanders were much mistaken, and this explanation is cheerfully given in justice to Mr. Robins and the Marshal, and shows why the arrest was made when the preacher prepared to preach by the side of the San Gabriel Valley Bank.

A new razee cutter.

Another Obstacle in the Way of the Boulevard Proposition.

The County Teachers' Institute at Lompoc—Plans of the Farmers' Alliance—Shipments of Pampas Plumes.

[The Times conveys news to Santa Barbara twenty-four hours ahead of the San Francisco papers. The branch office and agency is at No. 113 State street, where advertisements, orders for the paper and news items may be left.]

W. S. Seavy, formerly City Marshal of Santa Barbara, and who it will be remembered passed through this city, was named up as Chief of Police at Omaha, and figures quite conspicuously in a recent telegram from that city giving an account of the lynching of the negro, Joe Coe. Seavy, while marshal of Santa Barbara, eloped with the wife of Charles Paddock leaving a wife and son of his own to mourn his departure.

The boulevard matter it might be of interest to state that in order to submit the proposition to the city council, the people, properly and legally, there must be an unanimous vote of the Council to do so. In other words it must be by a three-fourths vote of the Council.

The city was fairly thronged with people from the country yesterday, and trade was good all through the business part of town. In fact, business is getting better generally everywhere.

Hayward & Co. shipped 50,000 pampas plumes to Germany yesterday. George Williams also started a car-load of plumes to New York.

I could name the next Sheriff of this county if I had a mind to, now.

Miguel Ortega filed an information yesterday against Henry Del Valle charging him with battery. Senior Ortega residing at Los Angeles and having a good time with some friends at a birthday party when, according to his complaint, Senior Del Valle hit him on the head. Del Valle pleaded not guilty and the case was set for Saturday.

A YOUTHFUL SUICIDE.

Frank Sutter, Aged 17 Years, Shoots Himself.

Despondency over a Love Affair the Cause of the Act—Peculiar Circumstances Surrounding the Tragedy.

Early yesterday morning Mrs. Frank Sutter, who lives on Blaine street near Washington, went out to the stable and found Frank, her seventeen-year-old son, lying on the floor dead, with a bullet-hole in his left side and an old Smith & Wesson pistol by his side.

The young man, who was going hunting yesterday, got up at 3 o'clock in the morning and went out to the stable to prepare for his trip. Among his effects was the pistol, and, as it needed cleaning, he went to work with it, and, as generally the case, he failed to remove the cartridges.

It is believed that he was oiling the hammer, with the muzzle resting against his left side, when the hammer slipped and the bullet exploded, killing him almost instantly.

A CASE OF SUICIDE.

The coroner's office was at once notified, but the body was not removed to the morgue. Coroner Weldon was out of the city on business at the time, and did not get out to the house until late in the afternoon. It was the intention at first to hold an inquest at once, but as there were several peculiar circumstances connected with the tragedy, it was decided to hold a post mortem, after which a jury was empaneled, and late last evening an inquest was held.

After a thorough examination the jury returned a verdict that the young man came to his death from a pistol shot wound inflicted by himself with suicidal intent.

At first it looked as if the young man had been murdered, but the examination of witnesses showed that he committed the deed himself, and it is believed there is a girl in the case, but her name could not be learned.

The young man has enjoyed good health, but has been despondent for some days, and when he retired night before last at 9 o'clock, he told his parents that he thought he would go hunting early in the morning. Young Sutter is believed to have been temporarily insane.

Rev. F. H. Holden, for the past year in charge of the Methodist Church at San Fernando, and also editor of the Christian Advocate of this city, will leave for Tacoma in a few days, he having been called to the pastorate of a leading church of that city.

During his residence in Southern California Mr. Holden has made many friends, who will regret to hear of his departure.

At 10 o'clock last night a man named S. W. Ayers, who was taking a ride on the Washington street horse-car line, attempted to jump from the platform and fell on his head, at the corner of Twelfth and Pearl streets. His head was badly cut, and he was taken to the receiving hospital, where his injuries were looked after by Drs. Murphy and Bryant. He will be out today.

Several oil paintings by J. Bond Francisco, and a number of water colors by E. Wachtel, will be displayed at the coming fair at the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Wachtel left Los Angeles last Friday to begin study in New York, whither he was summoned by a prominent artist who has seen specimens of his work, which he declares to be of merit. Mr. Wachtel has a large circle of friends in this city, who are confident that a brilliant future lies before him.

The same may be said of Mr. Francisco, who has gained some fame through the merit of the paintings which he has completed. The pictures of Mr. Francisco and Mr. Wachtel will be exhibited in a special room by themselves, carefully arranged as to light and surroundings, and as this is the first time that either of these gentlemen have to any extent shown their work in public, the affair is regarded by the art people of this city with no small degree of interest.

SLASHED HIS THROAT.

Attempted Suicide of J. E. Durfee of Arizona.

He is Believed to be Temporarily Insane from Overwork.

The Rash Act Prevented by H. W. Chase of the Nadeau.

The Second Time the Unfortunate Man Has Attempted to Take His Life—Now in the Custody of Friends.

At noon yesterday J. E. Durfee, the Arizona cattleman, attempted unsuccessfully to take his own life in a room in the Nadeau Hotel.

One of the chambermaids was making her rounds when she looked through Durfee's door and saw him standing before the looking-glass making suspicious motions with a large old-fashioned butcher knife. Thinking that he was about to end his days the woman ran down the hall crying "murder!" "help!" and various other things, at the top of her voice.

H. W. Chase, the proprietor, heard her calls for help and hurried to her side when she informed him that a man had cut his throat. An officer was sent for and Mr. Chase hurried to the room.

An exciting scene took place in the room, for Durfee acted like a maniac and declared that he would kill himself in spite of the world, and the chances are that he would have succeeded then and there had it not been for Mr. Chase.

After he had quieted down he was left alone for a few minutes and made his escape to the street. He hurried to the stable where he keeps his team, and was about to drive off, when an officer who had followed him put in an appearance and marched him to the police station.

His friends who had heard of his wild doings hurried to the police station, and after talking to him a while, it was decided to let him go with them.

It was rumored on the streets that he has been drinking heavily during the past few days, and that in a fit of temporary insanity he attempted to cut his throat, but his friends deny that he ever drinks.

They claim that a few months ago he had a severe fall in Arizona, and his head has not been right since. During the past week he has complained frequently of peculiar pains in the head, and has told more than one of his intimate friends that he is working too hard and will have to give up all his business ventures, unless he gets relief for the pain in his head.

Once before, or just after he recovered from the fall, he complained the same way and attempted to take his life.

He evidently made one or two slashes at himself yesterday, for a long cut, but not deeper than a pin scratch, was found on his neck. He must have been trying the knife to see if it would do the work.

He is a wealthy cattle man, and owns large tracts of land both in this country and in Arizona. He is a married man, but so far as is known he has had no trouble with his wife.

Elkington, writes: "I have been for years subject to bilious headaches and constipation. Have been so bad for a year back have had to take a physic every other night or else I would have a headache. Oh, the man in the moon has a crack in his back.
Whim! Whim!
And a mole on his nose that is purple and black.
And his eyes are so weak that they water and run.
If he dares to dream even he looks at the sun.
So, he just dreams of stars, as the doctors advise.
My!
Eyes! But isn't he wise
To just dream of stars as the doctors advise.

And the man in the moon has a boil on his ear.
Whim! Whim!
What a singular thing!
I know! But these facts are authentic, my dear.
There's a boil on his ear and a corn on his chin.
He calls it a dimple, but dimples stick in.
Yet it's not a dimple turned over, you know.
Whim! Whim!
Ho! Why, certainly so!
It might be a dimple turned over, you know!
And the man in the moon has a rheumatic knee.
Whim! Whim!
What a pity that is!
And his toes have worked round where his heels ought to be.
So whenever he wants to go north he goes south.
And comes back with the porridge crumbs all round his mouth.
And he brushes them off with a Japanese fan.
Whim! Whim!
What a marvelous man!
What a very remarkable marvelous man!
JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

There is a natural history agent for I found in the Philadelphia Times. It is about a curious note that came from Mexico.
"What are you holding in your hand?" I asked a friend the other day, as we sat together chatting. The fingers of his right hand were closed over the palm, and every now and then he regarded the member with an interest I couldn't understand.
"Wait a few minutes and I'll show you," was his reply.
Shortly afterward he opened his hand and I saw that it held a piece of a nut—about one-third of a whole nut.
"Watch it closely," my friend remarked.
I did, and pretty soon it seemed to become animated. It moved, first in one direction and then in another. It turned itself from the round to the angular side with apparent ease. How some of "Our Boys and Girls" ask, "I'll tell you."
Inside was a wee worm, which remained dormant till heat from the human body—or, at least, from the heat aroused it, when it moved with energy sufficient to change the position of its little house. The nut is from Mexico, and the worm is said to live nine months in this retreat.

In an old number of the Youth's Companion I find this little article, which tells how violins are made. There are whole German towns which do nothing but make these instruments, which I think give us the most delightful of all instrumental music when in the hands of a skillful player. It is the one instrument which seems to have a soul. The person who is writing about it says:
"No musical instrument is deserving of greater care than the violin. A good one will last for centuries and improve with age. A newspaper writer tells something of the people who make them in the villages of Klingenthal, Flessen, Rorbach and Graslitz, in Saxony, where there are about 15,000 people who make them, but make violins. The inhabitants, from the little urchin to the old gray-headed man, the small girl and the old grandmother, are all engaged in making some parts of a fiddle."

A good instrument consists of sixty-two different pieces. The body is made of a finger-board of ebony and the string holder of the screws. The small body makes themselves useful by looking after the glue pot. A man with strong, steady hands and a clear eye puts the different pieces together, and this is the most difficult task of all.
The women generally occupy themselves as polishers. This requires long practice, and a family having a daughter who is a good polisher is considered very fortunate. Even a young man, when he goes a-woo-ing, inquires whether the young girl is a good polisher, and if she is, it certainly will increase his affection for her at least twofold. The polishing takes a good deal of time, some of the best violins being twenty and even thirty years old.
Every family has its peculiar style of polishing, and never varies from that. There is one that makes nothing but a deep wine color, another a citron color, yet another an orange color, and so on.

This is the way the people treat their horses in Norway, and it seems a very good and sensible way indeed.
"The horses in Norway have a very sensible way of taking their food. Instead of swilling themselves with a painful water at a draught, from the fear of not getting any again, and then overgorging themselves for the same reason, they have a bucket of water put down beside their allowance of hay. It is amusing to see with what relish they take a sip of water and a mouthful of the other alternately, sometimes only moistening their mouth with a rational being would do while eating a dinner of such dry food. A broken-winded horse is scarcely ever seen in Norway."
How should we enjoy eating if we were never allowed a bit of anything to drink while eating, but were compelled to take our cup of milk or tea before or after we had eaten our dinners?

Do any of my boys and girls ever wonder how leap years were ever made, and why they occur as they do? If so, here is a little article from the Youth's Companion which will tell you all about it. The article was written in 1888, but it is just as full of interest now as it was then, and so here it is.
Another leap year has begun. The numbers of the new year, 1888, can be divided by four without a remainder, and Julius Caesar commanded us to add an extra day to every year the numbers of which can be so divided.
"Imperial Caesar, dead and turned to clay," is still lord of the calendar, and every man in Christendom will obey him on the first day of next February. But for a Caesar leap year was a little longer than the sun made it, and the excess amounts in 400 years to three days. To rectify this error, Pope Gregory decreed—and all Christians except Russia has adopted his reformed calendar—that the centennial years, such as 1600, 1700, 1800, shall be leap years only when they can be evenly divided by 400. Thus the year 1900 will not be a leap year, but the year 2000 will be. Thus the excess of three days in every 400 years will be avoided.

But even Popes are not infallible—in astronomy. In spite of this ingenious system of rectification, the average year is still too long by twenty-six seconds. The earth gets round the sun twenty-six seconds sooner than the Pope's calendar allows; and this excess in 3252 years would amount to a whole day.
Astronomers do not distress themselves about an error of a day in so long a period. Nevertheless, to reduce the error to an almost incalculable minimum, it is suggested by Prof. Woolhouse that the years divisible by 4000 shall also be common years. With that change, the total error would be only about one day in 24,000 years.
Who shall issue a command that cannot be obeyed until the year of our Lord 4000, and not again till the year 8000? As Julius Caesar began the radical reform of the calendar, and Pope Gregory XIII continued the good work, perhaps the completion of the task may be fairly left to the President of the United States; but any other gentleman will do as well.
Well, now good-bye, my dears, for this week. I have given you something to think of until we meet again.
E. A. O.

Christianity has been defined as "civilization carried into the spiritual realm," or in other words, it is that force which lifts and beaifies and perfects character. Men often indulge in the mistaken idea that a man's character may be easily improved, by improving his condition. This is by no means wholly true, but it is true that man's condition may be bettered by first improving his character. Develop a high and noble manhood, a love of justice and righteousness, and social reforms will be the result. It is human character that changes our environment, the forces working from within outward, overturning and overturning until the needed changes are wrought out, and harmony and beauty are the result.

Only a Pope could contradict a Caesar. Pope Gregory XIII, who rectified the calendar of Julius Caesar in 1582, commanded us (among other things) to make an occasional exception to Caesar's ruling. The Julian calendar made the year a little longer than the sun made it, and the excess amounts in 400 years to three days. To rectify this error, Pope Gregory decreed—and all Christians except Russia has adopted his reformed calendar—that the centennial years, such as 1600, 1700, 1800, shall be leap years only when they can be evenly divided by 400. Thus the year 1900 will not be a leap year, but the year 2000 will be. Thus the excess of three days in every 400 years will be avoided.

But even Popes are not infallible—in astronomy. In spite of this ingenious system of rectification, the average year is still too long by twenty-six seconds. Well, now good-bye, my dears, for this week. I have given you something to think of until we meet again.
E. A. O.

Christianity has been defined as "civilization carried into the spiritual realm," or in other words, it is that force which lifts and beaifies and perfects character. Men often indulge in the mistaken idea that a man's character may be easily improved, by improving his condition. This is by no means wholly true, but it is true that man's condition may be bettered by first improving his character. Develop a high and noble manhood, a love of justice and righteousness, and social reforms will be the result. It is human character that changes our environment, the forces working from within outward, overturning and overturning until the needed changes are wrought out, and harmony and beauty are the result.

Christianity, then, is the need of the world, the one great exterminating agent for us to employ against the evils which exist and whose removal we desire. Reconstruct the individual and then the reconstruction of society will naturally ensue. If every one who is desirous of seeing the world bettered would first look to himself and correct all that he finds wrong in his own life, the great work of the world's reformation would soon be accomplished.

What a wonderful world is the realm of the human heart! It is full of ever active impulses, of ever changing desires, of never ceasing thought. And all those thoughts, desires and impulses leave their impress not only upon the individual, but upon those about him. One of the mightiest forces in the universe is human influence. We cannot run away from it. It meets us everywhere. Its touch is as broad as humanity; as high as heaven and as deep as hell. The enveloping atmosphere is not more all-pervading than is this imperceptible, unconscious influence which daily emanates from our lives. Indeed, the vast atmospheric realm of all our lives is like a microscopic globe compared with that boundless infinitude of human influence which stretches out and on through the eternities of God.

It is character, therefore, that we want to watch and build rightly: it is this character-building, this character-education, this character-training, that we need in all things. It is not a religion for one day of the week, but for every day that is essential.

How civilization changes the natural man! It wipes out barbarism and savagery, and puts in their place the forces of his nature. It wakens his intellect and his heart. Benevolence, sympathy, loving-kindness and all social life spring into activity at the touch of its magic wand. The distance between the untutored savage and the cultivated gentleman is an immeasurable one. But carry this civilization into the spiritual realm of man's nature, put the love of God into his heart, put his nature in harmony with all that you begin rightly the work of character-building. This love to God will be like the clear shining of the sun in his spiritual heaven. Every noble faculty of his nature will be kindled into warmth and activity. The spiritual realm, if it were universal, would eliminate all the disorders and the wrongs that mar the civilizations of the world today.

"That is a reform that I would like to work for if I could hope to accomplish it," said a friend of mine, who was going to work to bring about the desired results. "You say, that dear friend, is by no means a difficult matter. Begin your work right with your own self. Look up your own heart to discover what is wrong. Look earnestly and honestly, prayerfully, and you will discover the existence of many evils that you never dreamed of. You will have mighty conflicts with sin there, with pride and selfishness, and worldliness. You will discover your need of humility, of faith and abiding trust. You will see how careless you have been of the souls of others; how indifferent to their spiritual needs and danger, and when you begin to do all this there will be no more lukewarmness, no more halting, no more doubt in regard to the work you have to do or the way in which it should be done. All the way will be clear before you and you will be content only as you are up and doing."

Oh, for more of the spirit of Christ, for that willingness to labor for the good of souls! Oh, for that civilization in the "spiritual realm" of our lives that shall lead the world to acknowledge that we have been with Christ and learned of Him, and are full of the beauty of holiness! Let us build higher, stronger, even upon the Rock Christ Jesus.
To mend gun boots, procure some pure gum of your drugist, and also some patching. Put an ounce or two of gum into a bowl, and pour over it benzine, cork tightly and allow it to stand four or five days, when it will be dissolved. Wet the boot for an inch or more around the hole and scrape with a knife. Repeat this wetting with benzine and scraping several times, until thoroughly cleaned and a new surface exposed. Wet the cloth side of the patching with benzine and give one slight scraping, then apply with a knife a good coating of the dissolved rubber, both to the boot and to the patch, and allow it to dry until it will not stick to your fingers, then apply the two surfaces and press or slightly hammer into as perfect contact as possible, and set away for a day or two, if possible, before using.—Exchange.

E. P. Vorwood of Camouanga has just harvested his almond crop, which was a large one. The nuts have a beautiful color and are of fine quality. He finds the almond to be a profitable nut, and as it grows to perfection in this locality, it should be more extensively cultivated.—Ontario Observer.

Julien Gordon, writing for the October number of Lippincott, says very truly under the head of "Healthy Heroines":
I think it too little understood that mental habits have an enormous value in deciding the physical condition. A heart and brain dissipated in frivolous detail, in idle gossip, in faccid introspection, in empty trivialities, rarely engenders an imposing personality. The body feels the dissipating effect of the regime. Food, being drooping shoulders, a wandering eye, cannot fix their attention, are ecstasies, tremulous and uneasy. The mind well stored, invigorating, awake, seems to give the poor body repose and repose. The brain requires nourishment from without as well as from within, and nourishment that stimulates, super-refines, culture rants and roars, makes itself heard, is exhaled in froth and endlesse bombast. Deep culture, on the other hand, is silent, slips about, indifferently, broods in the blood which it warms and invigorates. Mental sloth, the want of a vital interest, is the curse of half the women in the world. In the same way the physique tells upon the intellect. No good work can grow out of exhaustion, no flash of Protean fire or of genius from nervous straining, jaded and jangled. But the invalids are obdurate. A confirmed dyspeptic once swallowed in my presence, in a restaurant, just before a meal which he naturally came to with enthusiasm. I timidly ventured, when he complained of his lack of appetite, "The bananas?" He replied, "glaringly." "Fruit agrees with me."

There is the young woman who pulls in her belt until she is purple, and she goes to a doctor for physic or a skin lotion. You mildly suggest, "Lacing." "Oh, she says, 'I never hurts me. I can breathe.' To appeal to a woman about her health has long ago proved useless in these matters, but every woman is jealous of her beauty. A tightly-laced girl may be lovely at eighteen, she will be hideous at thirty. Why will not the physician touch and awaken the chord of vanity? But the doctors are dull or careless. They give a pill where they should loosen astringe.
A physician was once heard to admit that he could not discover the complaint of a blooming girl who was so pale, and who constantly in his hands. I could have told him, for I had seen her getting herself into her gown that morning. And how ungrateful, how lacking in all voluptuous abandon and forceful elegance, the movements of these strapped automata, not to mention the red nose, the roughened complexion, and the startled, pained eyeball!
Then as to the diet. A day begun with heavy, farinaceous food, drowed with rich cream and sugar, it would take the Scotchman's hard head day to digest. The short walk or drive, and long session in hot rooms, of our city routine, leave such a meal heavy on the soul.
How much wiser a cup of tea, a crisp bit of toast—quite sufficient nourishment for the opening hour of an artificial day.
At noon there should be a hearty repast, a light soup, a chop, some green vegetables, an orange. No wine, no wine, if the figure's lines and the skin's purity are valued. A cup of tea and bread and butter at 3 is permissible to such persons as dine very late. The dinner should be eaten, then, and this is sometimes an advantage. Then at the bath nothing should be touched. Indeed, a sip of bouillon. Hot vapors are refreshing. The summer of the skin should be easily appeased, on the return, by a glass of fresh milk and a biscuit. Upon this diet the most delicate and delicate never fear that horrid aspect of "a dispart-out."
Then exercise! How abused and neglected! Three miles a day of walking is enough, and not too much, or a horseback gallop of six or eight miles. To be out in the open air, and put in all the hours of the day, never, never to overfatigue oneself. Once is too much. Once has broken a constitution.
The Roman ladies knew the tonic of the bath. Lolita Paulina and Poppaea Sabina prized their charms. The warm bath at night. The cold water, sponging in the morning—that is the secret. The other matter of vital importance is the living in rooms, not over-cold—for a habitation should be kept at a temperature of 65° fresh and well ventilated. The large blazing heat of the open fire is very desirable as compared with the death-trap of the hidden register.

It will perhaps be a matter of surprise to many to learn that the culinary art is by no means neglected in China. Edward Bredt tells us that the number of Lippincott's Magazine that the cooking is admirable, and though utterly unlike anything European, is equal to that of the best kitchen of Paris. Many of the dishes were so simple as to show their position at a glance. A few of those I recall with very pleasant memories, were as follows. (1) Chicken-breast cut into dice and stewed with chicken-liver, mushrooms, truffles, mushrooms, bamboo-shoots, and wine. The sauce was a revelation of delight, and the dish itself was so carefully prepared that each ingredient had preserved its identity. (2) Devilled crabs. The meat, carefully picked, was laid in layers in the shell, alternating with ma-tai, a very delicate vegetable resembling a potato, and mixed with finely-chopped bacon, salt and red pepper. It was better than our own mode of making the dish. (3) Gold-fish stuffed. The fish is scaled and the scales removed. It is opened, cleaned, and stuffed with a paste that is chiefly vegetable in composition, and steamed until thoroughly cooked. It is served with a pale greyish sauce resembling Hollandaise, and decorated with sprigs of cress and other herbs. The contrast of color is very striking and beautiful. (4) Stuffed radishes. They are prepared the same as our stuffed cucumbers, and are baked or steamed. The heat destroys the biting qualities of the excellent without injuring its flavor, or, when steamed, its color. (5) Dragon-balls. These are miniature dragons made of fine pastry filled with forcemeat. They are decorated with primary colors, and stand proudly erect on their fore legs, or hind legs and tail, like toy dogs. I was puzzled how they kept the legs from coalescing with the body, and was informed that the body was supported on bamboo skewers during the baking operation. (6) Custard eggs. Eggs are emptied through small holes in each end, refilled with liquid custard, plugged and steamed. When broken, one is full of rose-colored, rose-flavored custard, and another with chocolate, and so on, not more than two being of the same tint and taste. Time and space forbid a longer enumeration. The three great dishes of the Mongolian epicure, bird's nest soup, sharks' fins, and devil-fish, are household words nowadays at home, and need no further comment than that they make delicious dishes.

I have the memory of an appetizing dish that my celestial Ong erect to occasionally prepare for our table, and which consisted of "stuffed potatoes." Large, mealy potatoes were nicely baked in the oven, and as soon as they were fairly done a small opening was made at one end and the whole of the inside of the potato was removed and finely mashed, and then mixed with onions chopped exceedingly fine, following which the whole was nicely seasoned with pepper and salt; butter was added, and then the mixture was put back in the skins again and set into the oven once more, just long enough to get them thoroughly heated. When they were served at once, they were appetizing and were enough to tempt the appetite of the most exacting epicure. I well remember the satisfaction with which I ate the first one ever set before me. I supposed I only had the ordinary baked potato with its "jacket" on, for so skillfully had Ong closed the opening that he had made, it was not all observable.

"Why, what is this, Ong?" I exclaimed with the first mouthful.
"You like him?" was the response, as Ong smiled his gratification upon me.
"Very much," I replied, and Ong at once proceeded to enlighten me in regard to the matter of preparation.
Ong was a rare cook, but alas, he and I parted company and he went out from my kitchen to return no more because of a few dirty habits he had which made it necessary for me, if I would enjoy the meals prepared at his hand, to keep my eyes forever shut if I entered the kitchen. This I could not well do, and so, much to my regret, I felt that I must dispense with his services. But this I will say of him, he was the prince of good cooks.

DR. WOH,

The Eminent Chinese Physician.

The cheapest and best land in Southern California for oranges and lemons. Attitude about the same as Redlands, making it very free from frost. Dry atmosphere, making it like Redlands, free from scale.

Sold claimed by the best judges, to even better than that of Redlands and Riverside. Water supply (1 inch to 4 acres) equal to the best in Southern California. 500 acres sold in less than a year in small tracts, mostly 10 and 20 acres each. Prices have steadily advanced from $50 an acre one year ago to $119 an acre now, and will advance to $129 an acre next month. We have no desire to sell this land to any but actual improvers, but comparing the prices with the $400, $500 and $600 land of Redlands and Riverside, it is unnecessary to have much foresight to see that there is a good speculative value in it now.

We have a few 10-acre tracts for sale from early buyers at $50 an acre, a few at $60 an acre; several at $100 an acre; over 300 acres at $110 an acre; a few tracts at $125, $135, $150 and $250 acre. Also a few large undivided tracts at still lower prices.

There is no "boom" here, still, if you are going to buy, you save money just the same by buying at once.

If it don't suit you to come and select the land you wish us to do so, we will make a careful selection for you that will be just as good as if you spent a couple of days looking over the ground.

You are invited to call or correspond with Yours respectfully,
